Medical marijuana was legalized in Michigan in 2008 by 65% of the voters. Although it carried significant voter support, medical marijuana legalization created questions and concerns, many of which still emerge.

In November 2018, Michigan voters passed a new proposal legalizing recreational marijuana. Predictably, more questions and concerns from all sides of the issue have arisen as a result.

Join us for an informative discussion on medical vs. recreational marijuana, and what we know so far about the implications of legalization.

We encourage you to come for lunch the day of the program. For lunch, call the center you plan to attend before 9:00am of that day to make your reservation.
